Ecological Aspect

The manufacture of our guitars to the requisite standards of precision and reliability is only possible with a high level of technology. There is no real alternative to the necessary electricity and gas energy requirements. We are committed to the well planned, sparing use of primary energy sources but not CO2 certificates which allow people to buy their way out of responsibilities.

Our contribution consists of knowledge about our energy profile and the targeted reduction of usage for every guitar built by us.

Tone woods are the souls of our instruments. Together with our suppliers we are accountable for the socially responsible utilization of these resources. We only purchase timber which bears a certificate of origin from suppliers who reforest and manage sustainably.
